

Kimberley Calling

Ngalangangpum School, Warmun

Primary and Secondary

Ngalangangpum School, located in the Warmun First Nations Community, is a Catholic institution dedicated to the Two-Way learning process symbolised by the Mother and Child.

This approach equips students to navigate modern challenges while preserving their cultural identity. The school values the collaborative learning relationship among staff, community, and students, offering a curriculum that honours and nurtures First Nations languages and culture. Additionally, the playgroup program supports parents as their children's first educators through the First Nations Families as First Educators Program.

Located in the breathtaking Kimberley region, educators can enjoy the stunning natural beauty of rugged landscapes, local art exhibitions, bushwalking, and vibrant sunsets. With a community swimming pool and an onsite gym, staff can stay fit and healthy without having to leave the locality. The community is rich in First Nations culture and traditions, providing a unique opportunity to immerse oneself in local customs and languages. This combination of meaningful work and an enriching lifestyle makes Warmun a compelling destination for educators seeking both professional fulfillment and personal growth.
